CITY AND VICINITY.

Five applicants for pensions were examined by the examining board Wednesday.

Tuesday the stone crusher was started and it will be kept at work until cold weather.

The street department have turned North avenue from Barker's farm to Heineberg bridge.

The Horicon Engine and Hose company of Plattsburgh have announced their intention of visiting Burlington on the fourth of July.

Washington despatches announce that when the death of Gen. Stannard was announced in the House six months' pay and $250 were voted to his widow.

Madame Sterneck is coming back to the Summer College and will teach French with Prof. Sanderson of Harvard, who is a Frenchman in spite of his name.

J. E. Fox, captain of Camp Gen. William Wells, Sons of Veterans, received on Saturday a check of $25 from Gen. Wells, with his compliments, to be added to the funds of the camp.

About 130 medical students attended the lectures last week and all have now returned home. It is now expected that Prof. Wright will complete the lectures on surgery this term.

The league game of ball between Middlebury college and Norwich University Saturday afternoon resulted in victory for the Middlebury team, after eleven innings, by a score of 21 to 30.

Word has come from good authority that Mrs. Geo. W. T. Sherman of St. Louis with her daughter and a large party of friends are to attend the Stager Summer College of Languages in this city.

Rev. Dr. Homer Eaton, the new pastor of the Methodist church, together with his estimable wife, were tendered by the ladies of their congregation an informal, but exceedingly pleasant reception, in the church parlors, Wednesday evening.

The Vermont came out of the harbor Saturday, looking as fresh as the morning in her new paint, and went over to Pattsburgh, where she laid till Monday, when she began her regular trips. She will be in command of the popular Capt. Rushlow.

During his sojourn in Montpelier the coming summer, Rev. Dr. Spalding of Syracuse will preach on Sundays in the College street church in this city, and his own pulpit in Syracuse will be supplied by Rev. Mr. Carter, pastor now of the College street church.

Upon the receipt of the intelligence of the death of Gen. Stannard Tuesday flags were displayed at half-mast throughout the city. The flag of Stannard Post was hoisted with black, and the exterior of G. A. R. hall on Church street was draped with emblems of mourning.

Jaeger D. Tinsley of this city rode to Westford and back Monday on a bicycle. The distance is 38 miles and the return trip of 19 miles was made in 10 minutes. Considering the fact that the roads were heavy from recent rains and were being repaired in places the time was far from slow.

A very pleasant, but quiet wedding was that of Herbert S. Stebbins of Williston, N. Y., and Miss Nellie E. Blithen of this city, on Wednesday last. The ceremony was performed in the presence of a few friends at the residence of the bride's mother, by Rev. Dr. Eaton of the Methodist church.

The street railroad force began the work of relaying the track through the curved portion of Church street Tuesday morning and by night the curbing was torn up between Bank and Main streets and the rails were removed a part of the distance. It is expected that this portion of the work will be completed in about three days.

The steamer Horicon on Lake George did not burst her boiler while undergoing the cold-water test, as reported in the newspapers the other day. What did really occur was a leakage around the boiler tubes which were too small and required expanding. The boiler was a new one, put in at the close of last season, and had never been used.

A new time table went into effect on the Central Vermont railroad Monday. The most radical change is in the time of the evening express for New York and Boston which leaves this city at 9:05 instead of 8:35 as formerly. Most of the changes do not exceed five minutes. The time table in another column is referred to for particulars.

The light houses on the breakwater have been recently moved out to the extreme ends, the signal lanterns have been removed, and Mr. Wakfield now lights the beacon lights every night. This is a great relief to lake "mariners" the lanterns being very inconspicuous compared with the beacons whose light is visible even on the New York shore.

C. L. Woodbury, '88, who represented the University in the Inter-collegiate contests at Mott Haven, a suburb of New York city, returned home Tuesday evening. He took third place in the trial heats for the 100 yards dash and the 220 yards dash, over about 30 competitors in each instance. The first two men only in each of the five trial heats, ran the final heat, in each of these events.

The society of the College street church at a recent special meeting decided to make extensive repairs in their church. The improvements will include rebuilding and enlarging the organ and pulpit platform and choir gallery, frescoing and new furnishings. When the above repairs are completed, which will be very soon, the society will have one of the finest auditoriums in the city.

A horse attached to a single wagon became frightened at a street car just this side of the brick yard Monday and ran off the embankment on the north side of the street. The wagon struck a tree and became detached from the horse which fell to the bottom of the embankment breaking its neck. The driver whose name was not learned escaped injury by jumping from the wagon.

The kerosene yacht of Mr. Hemenway of Boston passed inspection satisfactorily Monday, and left for Dr. Dickinson's charming summer residence on the lake a few miles this side of Westport, where Mr. Hemenway and his family intend to pass the summer. A speed of eight miles an hour is made by the little vessel on one gallon of cheap kerosene oil which costs about six cents.

Col. S. S. Davis and wife both died Thursday in Nashua, N. H., and are to be buried together Sunday at 2 p. m. Mr. Davis was a brother of Deacon Mial Davis of Fitchburg, Mass., and Captain George E. Davis of this city; and was Past Supreme Grand Chancellor of the World, Knights of Pythias, a prominent Odd Fellow and a Mason. He was acting assistant paymaster in the navy in the civil war.

The preliminary trial of William Jerome, on the charge of burglary in breaking into the house of J. K. Barnes and stealing a watch and other jewelry, was completed in the City Court Wednesday. He was bound over to the County Court in the sum of $800 in default of which he was committed to jail. Charles Fredericks of Richmond arrested for intoxication, pleaded guilty and was fined $5 and costs which he paid.

A letter from Dartmouth touching the statement made that the Bethels had vanquished the Dartmouth team, discloses the fact that the Bethels never have played with the Dartmouth team at all. The game played at Bethel was by a nine made up entirely of outsiders, and in which there was not a single member of the college nine. At a former game played at Hanover, in which only two of the college nine played, the Bethels were beaten by a score of 32 to 3.

The Sophomore class to the number of 25 held their class banquet at the Cumberland house, Plattsburgh, Thursday. An elaborate menu was served after which toasts were responded to as follows: "Our Class," S. S. Watson; "The Arie," H. C. Chase; "The Freshman Arie," A. C. Chase; "The Fair Ones," J. M. Cantwell; "University," E. M. Corse. The officers were as follows: Toastmaster, A. M. Willcox; orator, W. N. Clark; poet, C. B. Sornborger; historian, B. C. Day; prophet, C. C. Stafford.

The firemen of St. Albans deserve the thanks of our fire department as will be shown by the following from the Messenger of Thursday: "At a meeting of the fire department Wednesday night it was voted to postpone indefinitely the firemen's tournament projected for the 4th of July—on account of the proposed celebration at Burlington. The latter city have in view, as a part of their programme, a tournament of this sort, and the St. Albans firemen decided to leave the field clear for the Queen City."

The celebration of Memorial Day in this city was in various respects the most impressive and successful one as yet held. The day was a superb one, in point of weather. More veterans were in line than ever before; and the procession as a whole was a large and good one. The interest of the citizens was almost universal, as shown by the crowds on the streets, at the cemeteries and at the public exercises in the park; and Dr. Hawes's oration was second to none ever delivered here in interest, eloquence, and fitness for the occasion.

The ample voice of the speaker enabled him to make himself heard to the borders of the crowd numbering thousands, which surrounded the stand, and he held the attention of his hearers better than any previous Memorial-day orator within our recollection. The exercises throughout were impressive and inspiring, and the influence of such a day, so observed, can be only good.

The report of the dedication of the soldiers' monument at Brandon, on Saturday, ought to have especial interest for the citizens of Burlington. In his last message Mayor Woodbury of our city called the attention of the Board of Aldermen and of our citizens to this long postponed duty, in this regard, and recommended an appropriation of $500 for the purpose of erecting a soldiers' monument in Burlington. His recommendation has not been acted on; but we trust the matter has not passed from the notice of the city fathers. Time is passing on. Rutland, St. Johnsbury, Brandon, Brattleboro, Cavendish—almost all the large towns and many of the smaller ones of our State, have their soldiers' monuments erected or in process of erection. Shall Burlington, which sent more soldiers to the war than any other town, be the last to honor the memory of her patriot dead? Brandon voted the money for her monument at a time of great business depression; will our city, in her progress and prosperity, wait much longer? We trust not.

The fifth annual festival of the Philharmonic music society, which closed Friday night, was in many respects the best yet given by the society. The unfavorable thing about it was the weather, for which of course the managers did not undertake to be responsible. After a month of the finest spring weather ever known in these parts, it fell to the lot of the festival to be struck by a prolonged rain storm, pouring day after day, and allowing not a single half day of wholly fine weather, or of good going. Yet in spite of this the festival has been an unqualified success, musically, financially, in size and quality of the audiences, in enjoyment received, and musical cultivation gained. The chorus would have been larger by 25 singers more but for the storm, and with fine weather, the attendance would have pretty well tested the capacity of the opera house. As it was the chorus was larger than heretofore, strong in sopranos and tenors, good in alto, and excellent in quality and fair in numbers of the bass, though the bass can never be too strong, and a dozen more strong bass voices would have been a welcome addition. The chorus, too, was of superior quality. This must have struck all hearers. Those who have sung in the previous choruses have evidently profited by the drill, and the additions were of desirable quality, both as regards voices and training. The society was fortunate in its soloists. Miss Kehew is young, barely 20 we believe; but she shows careful training of the rare organ with which she has been gifted. Her voice is remarkably clear, strong, full and sweet. She attempted nothing that she could not perform. She sang if not always with enthusiasm, with correct expression and excellent finish. She has the making of a very superior vocalist in her, and she will be sure of a cordial welcome whenever she returns to Burlington. Of the finish and artistic quality of Miss Welsh's singing we have often spoken and these qualities were as noticeable as ever at this time. Mr. Parker made an exceedingly favorable impression. The society has had no more satisfactory tenor here. His voice is fine-grained and expressive, his execution good, and the very high praise can be accorded to him of taking the part of Samson with gratifying success. As for Mr. Babcock, he was at all times and everywhere splendid, and if it be true that his engagements will not permit him to come to future festivals, we do not know where the society will look for one who can begin to fill his place. The orchestra was the largest and best Mr. Blaisdell ever brought here, and its part on the programme gave unequalled gratification to all hearers. Miss Macomber, the pianist, though not in her full health and strength, was fully equal to her place, and pleased alike her hearers and the artists she accompanied. What Mr. Zerrahn is a conductor, all know. The audiences were of fine quality, comprising the true music lovers of this and other towns, giving cordial appreciation to the choicest selections, and applauding with a discrimination which showed that their approval was worth having. Of the series of performances, it can be said with truth that no series of equal merit has as yet been given by the society. There was no clap-trap or musical sensationalism about the various concerts; all was genuine good music, of high quality. The society is keeping its standard right up, and improving as it goes along. Of the closing performance of "Samson," we have spoken elsewhere. To have produced this oratorio as well as it was presented last evening is of itself a very high feather in the cap of the society. We are glad to know that the receipts will pay all expenses and leave a handsome surplus in the treasury of the Philharmonic society. To its managers, Mr. Fisher, Mr. Macomber, Mr. Johnson and the rest, high credit and the thanks of the community are due, for this most successful and enjoyable festival.

SONS OF VETERANS.

The Fourth Annual Encampment of the Vermont Division.

The fourth annual encampment of the Vermont Division, Sons of Veterans, opened at Brattleboro, Tuesday. The encampment was opened at 10:30 o'clock by C. F. R. Jenne, colonel commanding. Other division officers present were as follows: Lieut. Col. George R. Terrill, Underhill; Major W. S. Deane, Hardwick; Chaplain O. R. Leonard, Brattleboro. The division commander reports that the order has made great gains during the past year. Her aims attending the encampment of the division in chief at Buffalo, N. Y., August 31, and September 1 and 2. The roster of the division shows seven camps gained and one disbanded during the year. There are now 21 camps in good standing in the division, the first one being organized at Brandon, February 28, 1883, and called "E. S. Peck." Those organized during the year are as follows: "Gen. William Wells," Burlington, John E. Fox, cap.; "Warner French," Barre, W. J. Smith, cap.; "Josiah Groat," West Burke, Captain W. H. Humphrey; "Major A. P. Davis," West Concord, E. C. Grant, cap.; "Col. A. S. Tracy," Middlebury, Captain J. M. Nash; "Col. George W. Hooker," Rochester, Captain C. L. Bell; "Dr. C. L. Erwin," Newport, Captain N. S. Rogers. The membership of the division is about 500. In the afternoon there was a re-enactment of secret work and many of recruits by Colonel Tyler camp of Brattleboro, and in the evening there was a public installation of the division officers elect and a camp fire with an address by Chief Musterer, Officer General George W. Pennington of Minneapolis.

Rutland Musical Festival a Decided Success—A Large Chorus.

RUTLAND, Vt., June 2.—The third annual festival by the Rutland Musical Festival association opened this evening, with a concert and production of the cantata of "May Day." A chorus of 220 voices, conducted by Carl Zerrahn, is the largest and best drilled ever singing in Rutland. The Boston symphony orchestra of 30 pieces furnished instrumental music, and will participate in the four remaining concerts. One of the features of the evening was harp playing by Miss Maud Morgan.

Wednesday's Session.

In the case of W. E. Howard et al. vs. L. C. Dean et al. at Middlebury yesterday, a jury was empanelled and Howard gave a direct testimony, but Mr. Tupper, for the defense, asked a continuance for lack of witnesses. The court finally continued the case with costs against the defense. Charles Howard et al. appts. vs. James Barnett et al., was out after opening the jury. The first case brought to trial was James Barnett vs. Charles Howard, appt., an action on the bond of Howard, who drives the mail stage between Bridport and Middlebury, traded with Barnett for a horse, giving for him a check for $5 in money and a note for $45. When the note became due Howard, who had traded the horse off again, refused to pay it on the ground that the horse was not what he had been warranted to be. On the other side Barnett claimed that the horse and its terms were thoroughly understood by the parties.

There was much conflicting testimony on both sides. The testimony occupied the time of the court until nearly 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The grand jury found for true bills as follows: State vs. David Laura, two indictments, one for stealing a robe belonging to William Varney and the other for stealing a robe belonging to Elmer Parent, both of Lincoln; State vs. Lewis S. Alexander, a robbery on a highway from Stephen Finch; State vs. Alexander Wood and Gilbert Wood, for assault upon Charles Stevens at Cornwall.

Caledonia County Court.

ST. JOHNSBURY, Vt., June 1.—The Caledonia County Court convened here to-day, Judge Ross presiding. One hundred and twenty-three cases are on the law docket, twenty-eight on the chancery docket, but only seventeen are set for the jury. A short term is expected. There is a good attendance of lawyers.
